

Electronic Resources Services User Guide

Tips for Electronic Resources 1

How to Use DOGS Plus

What can I search?

- Electronic resources (electronic journals, electronic books, databases, articles and papers in electronic journals)
- Print resources (books, journals) in the university's collection
- Academic Repository

*In the Database Search Portal on the university library website, databases searchable on DOGS Plus are indicated with the link to "DOGS Plus" displayed in the "Supported services" field.

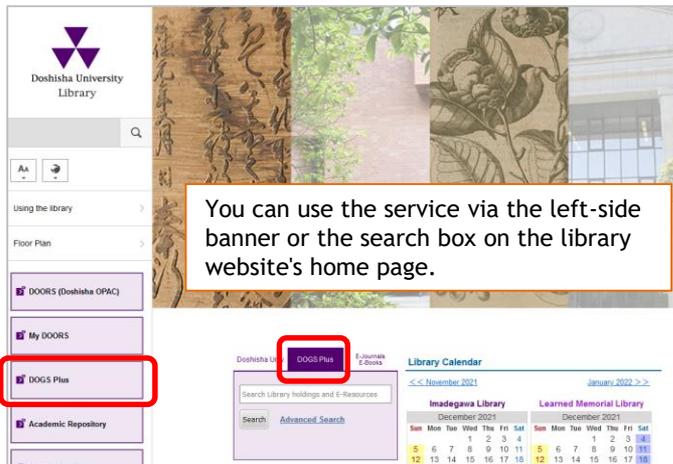

Useful for:

- Searching a wide range of electronic resources available on campus and print resources in the university's collection by keywords
- Searching for an article or paper in an electronic journal or a database

1. How to Search

Basic Search

Enter keywords into the search box and click Enter or the button.

As you begin to type in keywords, search suggestions will appear. This saves typing all the keywords and suggests words that you did not think of.

★ Search Tips

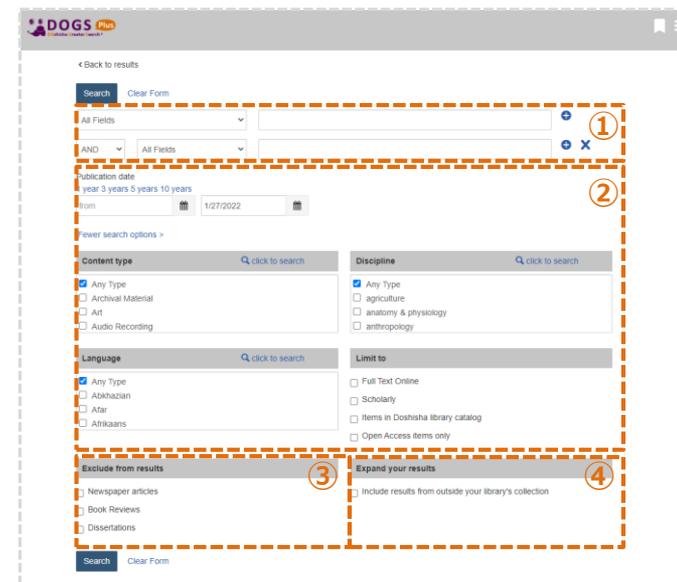

- Separate keywords with spaces to find items that include all the words.
 e.g.) Japanese culture
 →Search items that include both "Japanese" and "culture"
- Type the capital OR between words to find items that include any of the words.
 e.g.) Japanese OR culture
 →Search items that include either "Japanese" or "culture"
- For phrase search, enclose the keywords in double quotation marks ("").
 e.g.) "Japanese culture"
 →Search items that include the phrase "Japanese culture"

The basic search automatically searches a number of fields. For example, if you type in an article title, subject terms, author, publisher, journal or book title, volume, issue, ISBN, ISSN or DOI, results related to them will be shown.

Advanced Search

Click "Advanced Search" next to the search box to display the entry form below.

Enter keywords for the field(s) you want to search, specify search options and click the button.

★ What you can do with advanced search

- ① Limit the fields to search
- ② Specify ways to narrow the search
- ③ Specify format(s) you want to exclude
- ④ Include results from outside your library's collection. Expand the search beyond the university's collection and databases subscribed/provided by the university.

Summary
 Climate change is one of the most challenging issues of our time. As key sites in the production and management of emissions of greenhouse gases, cities will be crucial for the implementation of international agreements and national policies on climate change. This book provides a critical analysis of the role of cities in addressing climate change and the prospects for urban sustainability.
 Cities and Climate Change is the first in-depth analysis of the role of cities in addressing climate change. The book argues that key challenges concerning the resources and powers of local (... read more)
