

WCO Licensing Agreement

Access

- A Single User license grants password access to one concurrent user, and access may be shared amongst a team on a single site.
- A One Location license grants unlimited access by IP address or password to all users from the same organization at a single location.
- A Multiple Locations license grants unlimited access by IP address or password to all users from the same organization at any location.

Distribution

All statistics and text are subject to the copyright and other intellectual property rights of IMD. All reproduced IMD WCC material used should be attributed to: IMD World Competitiveness Center, Switzerland, www.imd.org/wcc

The use of the material should be limited in scope and adhere to general “fair use” copyright principles:

- The information should be used to support an argument or highlight a trend. Extensive storage, reproduction or distribution is expressly forbidden.
- Reproduction in publicly available documents (e.g. articles, sales brochures, case studies, books, and websites) should limit reproduction to insubstantial amounts; the equivalent of two full country indicator tables, or two full statistical tables should be indicative.
- A Single User license grants access to one concurrent user, and access may be shared amongst a team on a single site. Information from the database should not be further distributed.
- Both One Location and Multiple Locations licenses grant unlimited access to all eligible users. Information from the database can be distributed to all eligible persons. Internal organizational or classroom distribution, including course packs, should be limited to the amount needed for conducting a specific activity, and participants should be made aware that the content should not be further distributed.
